HABECK/STEEN RESIDENCE

New homes on existing city lots are often notable for their struggle to be good neighbors, in many cases, unsuccessfully so. Our clients were long time residents of the neighborhood and made certain that their new home would fit in both in terms of scale and character, while at the same time accommodate the needs their growing family. Taking advantage of the sloping lot and south exposure towards the rear of the home, the family living areas open to the back yard, the views and the sun.
